Fire alarm control panels on silent riders contain static-sensitive components. Use the static suppressor casing to protect the electronic assemblies removed from the unit. Therefore, it is recommended that this system and its peripherals be installed in an environment with a normal ambient temperature of 15-27Ao C/60-80Ao F. The control unit and associated equipment may be damaged by removing and/or inserting cards, modules, or interconnecting cables while the unit is energized. Consult the Technical Services Department if any problems are anticipated or found. While installing a fire alarm system may enable the lowest insurance rates, it is not a substitute for fire insurance! An automatic fire alarm system - typically composed of smoke detectors, heat detectors, manual tracing stations, audible warning devices and fire alarm control with remote notification capability - can provide early warning of a developing fire. All devices and system wiring must be tested and maintained by professional fire alarm installers, following the written procedures provided to each device. Rate Rate rate heat detectors may be subject to reduced sensitivity over time. Disconnect AC power and batteries before removing or inserting circuit boards. In addition, to ensure that other operations are not inadvertently affected, at least 10 % of starter devices that are not directly affected by the change, up to a maximum of 50 devices should also be tested and proper system operation checked. Operation and reliability of the Fire Alarm Control Panel (FACP) depend on proper installation. Although no system is completely immune to lightning transients and interferring, proper grounding will reduce susceptibility. Excessive effort can damage threads, resulting in reduced terminal contact and difficulty with the removal of the screw terminal. The appropriate written records of all inspections must be maintained. In addition, all types of smoke detectors, including ionization and photoal type types, so on detection limitations. No try to install, serve or operate this unit that the manuals are read and understood. IMPORTANT! Smoke detectors must be installed in the same room as the control panel and the rooms used by the system for the connection of the alarm transmission, communication, significance and signal /or energy. However, the life of the system's waiting batteries and electrical components can be adversely affected by extreme temperature and humidity ranges. These instructions must be followed to prevent damage to the control panel and associated equipment. For this reason, the Rise rate of each detector should be tested at least once a year by a qualified fire protection specialist. Remove all electrical assemblies before any perforation, filing, widening or drilling of the case. Smoke detectors may also not feel like a fire in another or floor of one.
